McAllister & Quinn 360° Internship Program

Introduction:

College students from all over the country experience our nation's capital through various internship programs. A professional internship experience in Washington, DC, can lead to a successful career in law, public service, lobbying, issue advocacy, public relations, consulting, or working on political campaigns. A Washington, DC, internship can spur a college student in many different directions. With this in mind, McAllister & Quinn, a government relations and grants consulting firm located in the heart of Washington, DC, has developed a comprehensive internship program that will give these students unique access to the many different aspects of Washington, DC.

The McAllister & Quinn 360° Internship Program provides participants with a well-rounded experience of the various components that make Washington, DC, what many have called the most powerful city in the world. The 360° Internship Program is an excellent fit for a college student with a career interest in the public policy and federal/foundation funding arena and desire to explore the various options that exist in that realm.

The McAllister & Quinn 360° Internship Program will focus on the following components of the Washington DC experience:

- 1) Congress- Interns will work with McAllister & Quinn professionals to participate in lobbying Congress. Interns will assist with scheduling, preparing background materials, monitoring congressional hearings, and attending meetings with congressional offices or congressional briefings when possible.
- 2) Public Policy Research- Interns will be responsible for developing public policy research memos and reports to be utilized by McAllister & Quinn and shared with various clients of the firm. We will work with interns to demonstrate the importance of strong writing, attention to detail, prioritization, and attention to meeting internal deadlines.
- 3) Political Fundraising- Interns will get first-hand experience in the political process by making political fundraising phone calls and attending fundraisers with Members of Congress when possible.
- 4) Consulting and Office Culture- Interns will experience how a consulting firm operates with an emphasis on client interaction and the overall culture of a 40-person consulting firm. Interns will receive guidance, knowledge, and direct feedback on the importance of communication skills, office etiquette, professionalism, networking, and other keys to success in an office environment.
- 5) Grants and Federal Agency Exposure- Interns will gain insight into how federal agencies operate along with exposure to federal and foundation funding mechanisms. Interns will learn the critical role that agencies play in the overall federal budget process. This will involve research on federal grants and tracking of other agency activities and announcements.
- 6) Speakers and Individual Mentors- Interns will participate in several McAllister & Quinn sponsored events involving experienced speakers focused on public policy, career development, and other relevant topics. In addition, each intern will be assigned an individual McAllister & Quinn mentor who will serve as a resource and sounding board for career advice, resume development, networking and other areas.

Program Specifics:

- This is an unpaid internship program. McAllister & Quinn will gladly work with universities to enable students to satisfy course credit requirements through the internship program.
